

THE FINAL VOTE

HON. GEORGE NIXON

FORMERLY ELECTED

He Outlines His Future Course
After the Result is Announced

At noon yesterday the two houses met in Joint Session in the Assembly chamber and after calling the roll read the minutes of the balloting of the two houses for the previous day and there having been no choice the vote was taken in joint session, Lieutenant Governor Allen in the Chair.

The roll call resulted in Sparks receiving 24 votes and Nixon 31. One absent.

A committee was then appointed to call upon the Senator elect and notified him of his election.

In a few minutes the committee succeeded in finding Mr. Nixon and when they brought him to the bar of the House and announced that they had carried out the wishes of the Chair there was a hearty round of applause as Mr. Nixon advanced to the rostrum.

After the applause subsided he addressed the gathering as follows:

"Mr. President and members of the Twenty-second Session of the Nevada Legislature, it is hardly necessary for me to say that this is the proudest moment in my life. I assure you that I appreciate the high honor which you, as members of the Nevada Legislature, have conferred upon me this day. I also appreciate, my friends, the high and great responsibilities which this office carries with it. You no doubt are aware of this fact, all of you, that I came to this State with no capital, but the teachings of a kind and loving mother and an honest father (Applause), pluck, determination and ambition. What have I made of myself and have accumulated of this world's goods for myself and my family I owe to the State of Nevada. I can assure you that while you may have sent in the past, men to represent you, in the United States Senate, you have never sent a man who will go there with better intentions to represent you honestly, faithfully and in the best interest of yourselves and the State. (Tremendous Applause.)

"I believe it is in order at this time to say, that during the last campaign I supported in the most vigorous manner possible the policies enunciated by the Republican State and National platforms. The policies upheld by our strenuous and vigorous President, the man who today is, I believe, the greatest American in all the world, Theodore Roosevelt, (Applause). Since that time I have also stated in public and in the press that my highest and greatest desire would be to uphold Mr. Roosevelt in those policies, which will accrue to the best interest of Nevada in every particular, and in such a manner as no one, I care not whether his policies be republicanism or democracy, will ever have cause to regret that I as a follower of Theodore Roosevelt supported those policies.

Now, my friends, during the campaign many of you heard me discuss the question of the day from a partisan standpoint. I was at that time a candidate of the Republican party for the office, to which you have just elevated me I can now say, from this time on I will not alone, be a representative of the Republican party, but I will be a representative of the entire people of the State of Nevada. (Applause.)

"I care not what a man's politics may be, if he addresses me on anything that is of interest to the State of Nevada he will find that he will get a prompt reply, and that I will at all times be on guard there looking after your interests. (Applause.) And as I stated in some of my speeches during the campaign, that during the recess of Congress you will find me within this State looking after the many business interests with which I am connected.

"I will say that I may not have or be entitled to the greatest standard at the present time of statesmanship, but I believe that I will be able to learn the duties of a United States Senator, and to all questions that come up I will apply to them the same principles that I have applied to questions that have come to me in my business career, that is, the best Americanism and the best judgment and all those things that go to make up an honest and courageous career, as a business man or as a statesman. (Applause.)

"It is not my intention, to make any extended remarks. I can only say once more, in looking around here over the familiar faces, there is hardly a man that I do not know personally, I care not what his politics may be.

"I can only say to you that I appreciate this honor, which you have conferred upon me, and I appreciate it. I believe greater because it has come to me, instead of going to a man, whom I believe, is one of the best and greatest men that we have ever had in the State of Nevada. (Tremendous applause), and it is a satisfaction to me, at this time, to know that during the entire campaign not an unkind word came from my lips as against my distinguished opponent, a man whom I count as a personal friend, and the only difference between us was the difference of politics. (Applause.)

"Once more my friends, I thank you, and all I can say is that upon all questions without enumerating them remember that I have only one star to follow and that is Nevada and all of her best interests. (Applause.) And to all charges that may have been made against me from time to time of a political nature all I ask is this, remember that acts speak louder than words; wait until I have acted, and see whether I have not been true to you, and true to myself, and in that way, true to the State of Nevada." Long and continued applause.

Worse and More of It.

Last fall the Appeal published the constitutional amendments for three months and circulated 12,000 copies of the paper as the law directs, but was informed that while the law compelled these publications it made no provision for paying the printer.

Yesterday an advertisement of the corporations that had come into the State for the past year was brought into the Appeal office. The advertisement will about fill two pages of the paper and runs for thirty days. An investigation of the law, however, reveals the fact that while the state gets over $10,000 for listing these corporations, no provision is made in the bill for paying the printer.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

are based upon personal appearance. Much as we say about judging a man by his clothes, we, all of us, are guilty of so doing. It is human nature. Go into a business office for the first time and you will realize to the fullest, the importance of good clothes. They demand respect. International Garments create a favorable impression and lend an air of distinction—generally essential to business success.

WEBBER CONFESSES

SIGNS WRITTEN STATEMENT
LAST NIGHT

Does Not Know His Motive but Acknowledges That he is the Guilty Party.

District Attorney Craig came over from Reno last evening and went to the Prison and obtained a signed confession from Levi Webber, the negro charged with the assault upon Mrs. Harper of Reno last week.

He readily gave the confession to the District Attorney and seemed glad of the opportunity to get the affair off his mind.

He stated that he had no reason for committing the act and that he was on his way to catch a train and that he intended going to Truckee. As he passed the house he saw a light burning and entered and committed the deed.

He absolutely gives no reasons for his actions and says he has none. Following is the full confession.

OFFICE NEVADA STATE PRISON
Carson City, Nevada, Jan. 25, 1905.

I, Levi Webber, without hope of reward and without any menace, threat or inducement of any kind, of my own free will do voluntarily make the following statement in relation to the assault upon Mrs. Harper in Reno, Nevada, January 20th 1905. As far as I can remember I pried up the window and went in the house and struck her with the axe and then I carried her out of the house and that's all that I done with her.

I picked up the axe out in the yard. She screamed when I struck her. I saw some children laying in the bed but did not pay any attention to them. I did not know who lived in the house. I was going to catch a train to go to Truckee when I passed the house and saw the lights and thought I would go in. I pried the window up with the axe. I do not know why I went in.

Signed: LEVI WEBBER.

Col. Fisher of Wells, who runs the famous bedbug incubator is in the city. He comes here on official business to investigate the famous Manila itch, which it is alleged Senator Gallagher brought to the Capital from Mason Valley. The insectivorous Col. will pursue his microscopic and bacteriological investigations here this week and embody his impressions in a report to the Governor.

Festivities Last Until Morning and Everybody was There
With Both Feet.

Last evening Senator Nixon gave a banquet at the Park Hotel that was regarded as a record breaker in that line. The affair was set for 8:30 but the preparations were so elaborate and as waiters had to be borrowed from other hotels, the horse as it were, was held at the post until after 9 o'clock before the start was made. Meanwhile the crowd that thronged the corridor of the hotel was in excellent humor and festive and bibulous.

The dining room was lavishly decorated and the tables were garnished with flowers and ferns and excellent music contributed to the general hilarity.

The following Menu was served:

Blue Points
Potage
Chicken Consomme en Tasse
Relishes
Celery Radishes Pickles
Salade

The speeches and toasts were mostly from a Republican standpoint and breathed the spirit of the occasion. There was a fine flow of oratory and wit and the speeches were equal to those which have gone before in bygone years.

Legislature Proceedings.

Little was done yesterday at the legislature, all interest being centered in the election of the U. S. Senator.

A message from the Governor was read in both branches, advising the passage of a bill making rape a capital offense, punishable by death.

In the Senate, Williams, by leave, introduced a bill granting the right of way to R. L. Douglass, W. J. Douglas and W. W. Williams to construct a railroad from Hazen to Fallon.

Regan the Reno murderer was taken back to Reno last evening. Webber the negro, still remains in the "pen" as the authorities feel that he is safer there.

Mrs. M. S. Bonfield and Mrs. Shone of Winnemucca, were in attendance at the balloting yesterday. They were both rooting for Nixon.
